

As a lifelong patient of Primary Care Associates of Appleton, I know firsthand the high quality, patient-centered care the physicians and staff provide.

Working in primary care allows me the opportunity to establish a lasting relationship with patients. Creating a continuity of care, as well as promoting health literacy and education, are important to me. My goal is to engage patients as partners in their care decisions to help them achieve a higher quality of life. I have a strong focus on open communication, trust, and understanding between myself and my patients.
